

OFFICER IS KILLED BY RUM RUNNERS

WATSONVILLE HAY FIELD SCENE OF SANGUINARY BATTLE

MOUNTED MACHINE GUN IS TURNED ON OFFICERS

One Deputy Killed, Sheriff and State
Traffic Officer Are Wounded While They Fight Outlaws Under Cover of Darkness.

Watsonville.—N. H. Rader, Salinas merchant, deputized to fight rum runners, is dead and Sheriff W. A. Oyer and a state traffic officer, Henry Livingston, were both wounded by machine gun bullets in a running fight with rum runners in a hay field ten miles south of this place.

The fight began when Livingston and four deputy sheriffs discovered the convoy automobile clearing the way for big automobile trucks carrying loads of liquor that had been landed from a rum ship half a mile north of Moss Landing.

Livingston commanded the automobile to halt. The rum runners answered the command by opening fire with the machine gun.

The windshield of the officer's automobile was shattered by the stream of bullets and Livingston and his deputies were showered by broken glass.

The armored car sped away and then it driver sought refuge in a hayfield when Livingston gave pursuit. Surrounding the hayfield by posting his deputies at wide distances, Livingston gave them orders to hold the runners at bay until he could drive to Salinas and summon aid.

At Salinas, Livingston informed Sheriff Oyer of the battle. The sheriff immediately gathered all the available men in Salinas, loaded them into automobiles and raced back to the hayfield.

The rum runners, apparently awaiting the arrival of other officers, greeted Sheriff Oyer and his deputies with a fusillade from the machine gun.

The gunner operating the weapon sprayed the approaching officer with a stream of death. Sheriff Oyer fell, shot through the right knee, and Officer Livingston was struck in the leg.

SCOPES CASE TO PROCEED IN COURT AT DAYTON

Cookeville, Tennessee.—John T. Scopes, public school teacher, must stand trial by jury in the state court at Dayton, Tennessee, on July 10 on a charge of violating the Tennessee statute prohibiting the teaching of evolution in the public schools, since Federal Judge John J. Gore has refused to grant the pedagogical a restraining order to stop the criminal case. The appeal for an injunction asserted that Scopes' constitutional rights would be violated by his trial in the state court.

John R. Neal, leading counsel for Scopes, said no appeal would be taken from Judge Gore's ruling now, but that he would soon apply to Judge Hicks, federal judge for eastern Tennessee, now in Detroit, for a federal court order in the case.

Dry Enforcement by Army

San Francisco.—A drastic change in the system of handling the prohibition enforcement throughout the country will go into effect August 1, as the result of plans recently made by General L. C. He will have full charge and direction of the administrative work of the dry forces and would be on leave of absence from the army on authority of President Coolidge during that period of service.

Seeks "Great Adventure"

Los Angeles.—To know what the hereafter held for her prompted Miss Jessie Dugleby, 35 years of age, secretary of the Immanuel Presbyterian church, to end her life, is the opinion of the police who investigated her death. She was found in the bedroom of her bungalow with a gas tube in her mouth. Alongside of her pillow was a copy of a current magazine opened at a story entitled "Looking Forward to the Great Adventure."

Hamilton, a Labor member, disturbed the government by demanding that the house of commons be given a chance to debate the Moroccan situation before any military or naval operations were commenced.

ENGINEERS TOTAL QUAKE DAMAGES

$6,230,000 LOSS TO PUBLIC AND
BUSINESS BUILDINGS

FRANCISCAN MISSION "SAFE WHEN REPAIRED"

Over Four Hundred Structures Inspected by Board of Engineers—
Seventy-four to Be Demolished—
New Quakes Cause Excitement.

Santa Barbara.—The total damage to public and business buildings in Santa Barbara, estimated by a board of California engineers, who reported after a detailed examination, is $6,230,000. The estimate does not include damage to private residences.

The engineers, headed by Professor C. E. Marx of the Stanford university engineering school, estimated damage to business buildings and semi-public institutions at $5,000,000, to schools at $700,000 and to county buildings at $230,000.

Their report shows that they inspected 411 buildings. Of these the total number totally destroyed or to be demolished is seventy-four, including fourteen classed as "shacks," requiring further inspection before being demolished, eleven; unsafe until repaired, seventy-two; safe "as is," sixty-four; in need of repairs, but safe for immediate use, eighty-two; damaged and to be opened for use when repaired, one hundred and two; safe for use when chimneys are inspected, six.

The old Franciscan mission, Santa Barbara's most widely known building, is classed by the engineers as "safe when repairs are made."

The buildings included in the "safe as is" classification are the city hall and the Christian church. Total losses include the Fifth building, whose tall clock tower and chimneys were familiar to all visitors here; Faulding hotel, church and school of the parish of Our Lady of Sorrows, Chamber of Commerce building, First Methodist church, chapel and sacristy of the St. Francis hospital, Elks' building.

Those damaged so seriously that further inspection is recommended, with the possibility of being included in the list of total losses are the Arlington hotel, San Marcos building, St. Anthony's college (a training school for candidates for the order of Franciscans), Carillo hotel, Masonic temple, almost completed at a cost of $280,000; First National Bank building, Trinity Episcopal church and the California hotel. All of the buildings included in this class are comparatively new and costly structures.

Those considered by the engineers to be safe but in need of repairs include the 8-story Granada theater building, the state teachers' college, the Cottage hospital, St. Vincent's orphanage, completed only a few months ago at a cost of $500,000; El Mirasol hotel and the new building of the University club.

The buildings classed as safe when repairs are made include the post-office, the one steel frame building in Santa Barbara; the Potter theater, the old Mission, the Samarkand hotel, Central Trust and Savings bank, the Edison company's large bathhouse, recreation center, St. Francis hospital, County National Bank building and the Southern Pacific station.

The schools regarded as safe but needing repairs include the new half-million-dollar high school.

Washington.—Senator Norris, replying to an offer of leadership of the movement headed by late Senator La Follette, asserted that he did "not want to be associated with any party as its leader."

La Follette, Jr., for Senate

Madison, Wisconsin.—A special election to select candidates for United States senator, made vacant by the death of Robert M. La Follette, will be called after the return of Robert M. La Follette, Jr., from Washington.

Sacramento.—The water supply and sewer system of Santa Barbara were not damaged by the earthquake, according to a report made by Dr. George E. Bright, president of the state board of health. In a letter to the governor, Dr. Bright explains that immediately following the quake he ordered an investigation of the water and sewer systems of the city with a view to protecting public health. He said conditions were found to be good.

'24 Prune Crop is Selling Fast, Says Association

Prunes of the 1924 crop are moving in huge quantities on the most active market that has prevailed since the opening of the season, according to rumors which have been in circulation for the past few days and which were confirmed by officials of the California Prune and Apricot Growers' association.

President C. D. Cavalero authorized the statement that the fear of carrying a large carry-over of the 1924 crop of prunes into the selling season for the 1925 crop had now been removed and that there was little doubt that the prune industry would face the new season with bare bins.

Some surprise was expressed by growers and others interested in this statement, but it was pointed out that executives of the association had been working quietly but determinedly to bring about the sale of the 1924 crop, and that their efforts were being rewarded with complete success, as is demonstrated by the market condition which now exists.

On June 1, prune prices were adjusted to lower levels, and offerings that have been made since that time have been snapped up in record breaking time as a result of the association, which controls practically all of the remaining supplies of prunes, announced today that it has less than 20,000,000 pounds, or two months' supply with a normal demand, but officials said that if the present demand continues these stocks may not last until the end of July, except in the case of carload goods, on which a constant supply is maintained.

FARWELL FOR REV. AND MRS. MARSH

A very pleasant social evening was enjoyed Friday at the Congregational church when friends of Rev. and Mrs. Geo. L. Marsh gathered from both churches to bid them "good-bye" and "bon voyage."

There seemed to be less of the usual sadness often incident to such occasions, altho both the good people had greatly endeared themselves in the hearts of the people, during former years, and again for the short time they had just been among us. Their own good cheer and joy over the service to which they go cast its glow over the entire company.

Mr. T. A. Cutting, who acted as announcer for the short program added to the amusement by his unusual choice of phrases. Vocal selections by Mrs. J. D. Blaine, who was accompanied by her daughter, Miss Miriam, by Mrs. Worthin Grattan, Dr. W. I. Merrill and H. C. Smith, all of whom were accompanied by Dr. Merrill, were heartily appreciated. Mrs. H. C. Smith gave a reading and Mr. Marsh a delightfully interesting account of his early life in the Balkans. Tragedy and humor were happily intermingled in a vivid word picture of life and conditions in those far lands.

During the hour of pleasant conversation following unique refreshments of iced apricots and pineapple with cake, was served by the ladies.

Mr. Marsh has promised to keep the church here informed of their work in Greece so that we are not to loose touch with them.

BOY BADLY CUT

Jack Silberbauer, younger son of Mrs. Jessie Silberbauer, met with an accident Wednesday afternoon from which he received a bad gash across the outside of the calf of the left leg. In the absence of Dr. Merrill he was taken to the county hospital where several stitches were required to close the wound.

The lad was playing in a neighbor's yard and tripped on the cellar door. In his fall he encountered a piece of glass, broken bottle or something jagged which caused the trouble, altho he did not realize immediately the extent of the injury. When we went to press he was resting comfortably at the hospital.

Attorney and Mrs. L. D. Bohnett are visiting in the East where L. D. went as a delegate to the Lions convention.

MILLION DOLLAR LAND CASE HINGES ON SINGLE WORD

Modesto.—Upon the court's interpretation and ruling of one word hinges the outcome of the million dollar land case being tried in the superior court here. The word "fractional," which appears in the description of property which the six Newport heirs are seeking to regain, now valued at over $1,000,000, is the vital point in evidence so far presented during trial of the case. Description of the land sold at an alleged fraudulent tax sale to G. D. Plato, pioneer merchant, in 1894, contains the wording "fractional" quarter section of land.

Counsel for defendant property owners hold that this description wipes out the claim of most of the defendants that they were innocent purchasers of property within the disputed residential district.

State Employee Acquitted

Sacramento.—Bart C. Greer, an employee in the secretary of state's office, was acquitted by a jury in the federal court on a charge of extortion in connection with the prohibition law. Greer, with his cousin, Walter Greer, former prohibition director in this section, also faces a charge of falsifying government expense accounts.

WHY MEN GO FREE

William Darling Shepherd went free. It is not surprising. We were not at the trial, nor did we follow the press reports further than human nature and a battling morbidity enticed. We know little of the details of the case, and accept the verdict of acquittal because the jury has spoken and because of the cardinal principle of innocence until proven guilty.

It may be interesting, however, to speculate upon the reason for the jury's verdict of acquittal in the face of the fact that a state's witness, "Dr." Charles Faiman, testified that he supplied the defendant with typhoid germs with which to inoculate Billy McClintock, the millionaire ward of Shepherd. The jury did not believe Faiman's story. They either decided that he told an untruth on the stand, or their confidence in his testimony was shaken to the extent that a reasonable doubt arose in their minds, which is sufficient for an acquittal in a criminal case.

We hear a lot from super-sentimental people about circumstantial evidence, but it is sometimes stronger and more convincing than direct or personal "eye-witness" testimony. The reason is because circumstances never lie, while men do. Conclusions drawn from circumstances may be erroneous, but not the circumstances by their very nature. This is why actual confessions of alleged murderers must be backed by an actual proof of the corpus deict—body of the crime—by other evidence. A confession from a defendant is sometimes unreliable, and it is a wholesome provision of our law and discretion of courts that confessions are not taken arbitrarily and alone upon which to pass sentence and base punishment.

Jurors know the proneness to error, the frailties of human speech and thought, the flights of imagination. They sit, they hear, they form doubts, and they acquit. It is the right system or the best system humans know; but it is both a protection to the innocent and a shield to the guilty.

HOW TRUE!

Commenting on the reported number of deaths from the recent heat wave in the middle-west and east, a Y. M. C. A. secretary ventures that "at least three-fourths of these deaths were due rather to the failure of the victims to fulfill the ordinary requirements of normal living, so that the sudden heat merely furnished an excuse for their deaths."

There is a great deal of truth in the assertion of this secretary, which leads one to surmise as to whether most ailments are produced or invited by conditions of improper living and depleted vitality. It is easy, of course, to wind ourselves up in logic by carrying a proposition too far. Just like the doctor who asserts that there is only one immediate cause of death,—heart failure, simply because the heart stops beating and that ends it. However, the further statement of the Y. M. C. A. official is worth quoting:

"Lack of exercise, improper habits of eating, carelessness in observing health habits, excessive smoking, insufficient sleep, and such ordinary causes were undoubtedly back of most of these fatalities; or, in other words, most of those who died from the heat might have kept on living if they had taken the trouble to keep themselves moderately fit."

PULL FOR THE HOME MERCHANT

Watching a circus parade is interesting. Perhaps you look at the lions and tigers in the wagon cages, but you ought to take a look at the horses that pull the wagons. Here will be six horses, two abreast, hitched to a wagon. But usually the team nearest the wagon does the pulling. The front teams keep going, but their tugs are loose,—not very strong on the pull. Too many people support the home merchants like the front teams. They like to be in the procession, they like to lead the parade, but they don't do much pulling. The spectators look upon and admire them, but few notice how little they pull, so they "get by." The way to pull for prosperity is to hold a close connection between yourself and the institutions upon which you are dependent for the turning of the wheels of progress.

The automobile has rendered another possibility. A woman recently attempted suicide because she could not make her payments on her car. When they threatened to take it away from her she decided to end it all. People not only die in motor cars, under motor cars but some "just can't live without" motor cars.

As houses and buildings usually go, they are worth much or little, depending on their rental value. The same goes for men. If one is capable, honest and hardworking, his "rental value" is proportionately high. He can command a good price, and deserves all he gets.

BIG BUSINESS OF UNCLE SAM

The United States mail service is the biggest single business in all the world. It is pre-eminent in many particulars. It handles one third of the world's mail, equalling in number all the pieces handled by Great Britain, Germany, France and Russia combined and the mail of New York City alone is greater than that of the Dominion of Canada. The speed of delivery to great distances is greatest in the United States. No other country permits such large packages to be transported thru the mail service.

Because of the great preponderance of mail in this country more mechanical contrivances and labor saving devices are utilized in its dispatch probably than in all other countries combined.

Possibly one reason for America's pre-eminence in the use of the mails is its acknowledged respect for the inviolability of the letter and a freedom from seal-cracking that is not so much observed in other countries.

Most Modern Locomotive Serves West

Views of the new three-cylinder Southern Pacific type locomotive which Southern Pacific Company is placing in mountain service. This is the most powerful single unit freight locomotive built. Full length view of the locomotive is shown at the top. Lower left—Detail showing the five driving wheels on one side and the feed water heater. Lower right—Front view showing the three cylinders, one on each side and one in the middle.

CALIFORNIA shippers and travelers have the world's most powerful single unit freight and passenger locomotive at their service.

The first of sixteen new three-cylinder Southern Pacific type locomotives have just reached the Pacific Coast and are being placed in heavy freight and passenger service by Southern Pacific Company in mountain territory.

The locomotives are of a distinctly new type, developed by the American Locomotive Company, in co-operation with Southern Pacific's mechanical experts. Everyone has something of the small boy's interest in locomotives and wherever the new locomotives have been seen they have attracted unusual interest, both from the public and railroad employees on account of their size, power and design.

The new locomotives will all be in service before the peak traffic movement in the fall.

"They are the most modern development in locomotive construction and are good evidence of Southern Pacific efforts to develop and improve its facilities to keep pace with the progress of this western country," J. H. Dyer, general manager, said in commenting on the new titans of the rails. "The West requires the best of transportation, for its products move many miles to market. The new locomotives represent our desire to take advantage of every worthwhile improvement in railroad industry."

The outstanding feature of the new locomotives is the third cylinder, placed inside of the main frames and slightly above and between the two outside cylinders. The adding of the third cylinder has an effect similar to that obtained by increasing the number of cylinders in an automobile engine from four to six.

In addition to providing increased power and economy in use of steam, the third cylinder will distribute the stresses on two driving axles, instead of one. The locomotives weigh 682,400 pounds and have a tractive power of 98,530 pounds, or weigh 115.58 pounds per one horsepower. Their hauling capacity is one-fourth more at a speed of 25 miles per hour on a 2.2 per cent grade than that of the most powerful locomotive heretofore in use by the company.

The locomotives are 101 feet 1 inch in length and 16 feet 3 inches in height. They have a 4-10-2 wheel arrangement and a total wheel base of 87 feet 2 3/4 inches. Each of the driving wheels is 63 1/4 inches in diameter. The tender has a capacity of 12,000 gallons of water and 4,400 gallons of fuel oil.

In addition to the sixteen three-cylinder locomotives, the Southern Pacific is further increasing its motive power by building in its own shops eighteen 4-8-2 mountain type locomotives to be used in its transcontinental passenger traffic. These locomotives have been making through runs of 815 miles.

all postal employees be maintained by a Guarantee Fund in connection with the Department.

10. Whereas the amount of mail handled by rural carriers causes some carriers much more work than others, therefore be it resolved that we ask the department to take some action if possible to equalize the work to some extent by supplying a helper, relieving the carrier of forwarding mail, or by paying more salar for such routes.

11. Resolved; That we endorse the Ladies' Auxiliary.

12. Resolved that we suggest that the Postmaster General require some insignia for the Rural Carriers conveyance and approve of the flag as suggested by our state president.

13. Whereas the association has grown and become of much efficiency and having faith in the men we elect from our ranks as National Officers. Therefore, be it resolved that the office of Attorney be abolished and the National officers be given the authority to employ an attorney as occasion shall require.

14. Whereas, during the recent Better Salary Campaign, the California Joint Postal Committee did very efficiently and effectively manage the campaign securing support that no other type of organization could possibly obtain and all at a minimum of expense and labor, with no duplication of work on the part of any one, and whereas, the California Joint Postal Committee as sponsored by the Joint Clerk-Carrier Convention at Berkeley has practically ceased to exist at a time when it was just well started and with volumes of much needed legislation yet to be acted upon, therefore be it resolved, that this State Convention of California, Rural Letter Carriers' Association go on record as favoring the appointment of a committee of Three Rural Carriers (who will have full power to act for the California Rural Letter Carriers' Association) who will cooperate with a like number from each of the other state organizations of Postal Employees, until a permanent organization is effected.

15. Resolved that the retirement law be changed so retirement after 30 years of service, regardless of age, be allowed. That the amount of annuity be based on the amount of money paid the retired for the last five years in service.

16. Resolved that the Department grant substitutes the same pay as rural carriers. That is, that the months pay for substitutes be divided by the number of working days instead of calendar days.

WIFE OF JOHN BROWN FORMER SARATOGAN

SARATOGA.—Scions of abolitionists and anti-slavery workers of three quarters of a century ago are often found at the grave of Mrs. Mary A. Brown—widow of the hero of Harper's Ferry—in the quiet cemetery of Saratoga and at the "John Brown house" in the hills high above the village.

Here it was that the widow of John Brown and some of his children finally sought refuge after three of Brown's sons and he failed to survive the historic Harper's Ferry raid. Here on the mountain side, nearly a half-mile above the valley spread out beneath, the widow of the fiery abolitionist made her home, which still stands, with the original architectural vagaries of the builder faithfully retained.

An incomparable view spreads below the broad verandas of the house, showing the sleeping Indian maiden of Tamlapas to the north and the San Benito hills many miles south. Fields and orchards make a patchwork quilt on the valley floor, while purples and golden greens glorify the colorful picture.

Here the widow of John Brown lived and here she died, keeping her hags sorrows largely to herself. The simple grave in Saratoga cemetery carries the inscription, "Enter thou into the joy of the Lord," with the date of her birth, April 15, 1816, and the date of her death, February 29, 1884.

Brown himself was buried at North Elba, N. Y., after he was executed at Charleston, W. Va., on December 2, 1859. Brown was an American Abolitionist of the most radical type, born of Puritan ancestry in Torrington, Conn., May 9, 1800. He engaged in the wool business and a number of the tools he used in treading wool and dressing hides are still in the possession of his son-in-law, James Fablinger, in this county.

John Brown's active part in the struggle to keep Kansas a free state during civil war days, carried him into the depths of the controversy and insurrection of slaves of the south was planned. Brown, using a nearby farm as a blind, gathered his followers together, and on October 16, 1859, marched into Harper's Ferry with less than a score of men and seized the arsenal.

This audacious act resulted only in calamity and aroused the south so as to make any peaceful arrangement of the slave problem even more remote. Regular army troops under Ribert E. Lee soon recaptured the arsenal and took Brown and his followers. Brown was tried, convicted of treason, murder, conspiracy and advising with slaves and others to rebel. He was executed December 2, 1859, at Charlestown, W. Va.

Brown was elevated to the position of a martyr—and all but sainted—in

If you notice the Gas Pressure low in a particular burner, light others to be sure the fault is not with the first burner. If the pressure is poor notify the Company without delay and a service man will be sent to remedy the trouble.

Lack of pressure is sometimes due to improper piping. Many buildings are piped for limited use of Gas and low pressure results when the number of appliances is increased.

Low pressure is very often due to clogged house pipes. When the Gas service man discovers this condition, it is sometimes possible for him to clear the pipes, and he will do this whenever possible. If necessary, he will advise you to call a plumber.
